DEMOCRACY AND DICTATORSHIP: POLITICS IN THE CONTEMPORARY WORLD

INSTRUCTOR: Peter Rutland, prutland@wesleyan.edu; tel. 2483; office hours in PAC 203, MW 10.30-12.00.

ASSESSMENT: 1) Mid-term test in class on October 13. [15 points]

2) Three 5-7 page assignments due on Friday Sept 30, Nov 4, and Dec 9. [15 points each]

3) Final examination on Wednesday, December 14, 2.00-3.30. [15 points]

4) Very short weekly quiz on the required reading (1 point for a correct answer, 2 points for an exceptional answer). [15 points]

5) Extra credit, such as a 1-2 page report on an outside lecture, will earn 1-2 points per report. [6 points max]

Students are required to attend every class and to complete the required reading. Do not use a laptop to surf the web or check email during class.

Beware of plagiarism i.e. using material not written by yourself and without clear attribution to the source. Always include “quotation marks” if you copy material from a website or other source.

GOALS OF THE COURSE

The world’s political systems are increasingly polarized between winners and losers, between countries that have ‘made it’ into liberal democracy and market capitalism, and those that remain mired in poverty, stagnation, inequality and war. But these generalizations do not get us very far. Only by studying individual countries can we understand the variety of political and economic systems and the complexity of the modern world, despite the homogenizing process of globalization.

The focus of the course is the present. To get up to speed on contemporary events students should read the international section of the New York Times or Washington Post every day. They are available free on the web (nytimes.com and washingtonpost.com).

But this course is not just a survey of current events. The goal is to provide you with a conceptual framework, a box of tools in order to help answer the question of who rules, and how, in each of the world’s 192 countries. In fact you will be offered three theoretical frameworks, prisms through which to view the world. Each of these theories is both descriptive and normative - they both describe the world and make a value judgment about what is right and wrong.

The three theories are:

1) Liberal democracy or pluralism,

2) Marxism and the theory of imperialism, and

3) Elite theory

We will try to survey the whole range of political systems currently in operation, looking at the First World (Europe and Japan), what used to be the Second World (Russia and China), and the Third World (Mexico, India, Iran, South Africa). The goal is to learn how to sift through the record and grasp the unique historical, cultural and institutional factors that are key to understanding the political dynamics of a given country.

Note that this course is Comparative Politics, focusing on political process within a given country. A different field of political science, International Relations, deals with global issues and institutions that go beyond a state’s borders.
READINGS

Required books:
Robert Dahl, Polyarchy (Yale University Press, 1972)

All the readings on the syllabus (except these books) have hyperlinks that will take you direct to the article in the Wesfiles folder for this course. If you have any problem accessing the readings, please email me!

Required or Core readings are the first items listed for each class.

Optional readings are extra sources that I will be discussing in class. The more of them you are able to read, the more you will get out of the class, and the better your performance in papers and tests. No test will require that you show knowledge of any specific optional reading, however.

There are many novels and movies that raise the issues in this course. These are two classic political novels that are available at Broad Street Books:

- George Orwell, 1984 (1948)

THE ASSIGNMENTS

Each student will write case studies of three randomly assigned countries beyond the countries discussed in class. The case studies teach you how to find out information about a given country and place it into a coherent context. You also understand the inner logic of the three theories by applying them to specific countries.

In the assignments you are expected to apply in turn each of the three theories to each of three countries i.e. a liberal analysis of Country A, a Marxist analysis of Country B, an Elite Theory analysis of Country C. You will be allotted the three countries you will study in a random draw in the first class. You can ask the instructor to change your country allocation if you have a strong desire to do a particular country.

Each paper should be 5-7 pages long, consisting of:

- an introduction summarizing your main points.

- a page or so on the political history of the country, as interpreted through the theory being applied.

- a couple of pages explaining how the current political system works, its structure and problems, as seen through the prism of the given theory. Who rules, and how? Is the political situation stable or unstable? What are the threats to stability? What does the theory propose should be done to improve things?

- a page or so discussing the advantages and disadvantages to using the given theory to analyze the country.

The assignment should be sent to me as an email attachment (Word) on the day it is due. Remember what I am looking for is not only facts, but critical analysis of political institutions and processes.

For the history and overview of the political system you should begin with the history and annual reports on each country in Encyclopedia Britannica or Wikipedia, and the CIA and State Department sites listed on the next page. Locate and use at least one book, to give you a sense of academic approaches to the country. Use at least four newspaper articles from sources such as Wash Post or New York Times to bring you up to date.

Week 1

THE ROOTS OF LIBERAL DEMOCRACY

Sept 8

We are living in a democracy - but what exactly is a democracy? We begin by looking at the roots:

Athenian direct democracy, moving on to the modern version combining individual rights and representative government that emerged in the 18th century.

Core reading

- Aristotle: Politics (350 BC), Book 4
- Benjamin Constant: The Liberty of the Ancients Compared to That of the Moderns (1816)

Optional reading:

- Alexis de Tocqueville: Democracy in America (1836) chs. 1-5
Week 2
Sept 13
BRITAIN

What are the differences between the US and British democratic traditions?
How does a parliamentary system differ from a presidential system?
What was Thatcherism, and why did it appear when it did? What does New Labour stand for?
How is the Tory-Lib Dem coalition working out?

Week 4
Sept 29

JAPAN

Japan was the first non-European country to modernize itself. After the defeat of Japanese imperialism in 1945, it became a democracy – and a close US ally. How successful is the Japanese political and economic model? Japanese parliamentarism works through patronage and consensus: just how democratic is Japan?

Kopstein & Lichbach  Comparative Politics, ch. 4 Schreurs on Japan

Steven Vogel  ‘Japan’s long road to competitive politics,’ Current History, Sept 2010

First assignment, 5-7 pages, to be submitted on Friday September 30 by 4.00 pm:

A liberal democratic analysis of country Z. How democratic is country Z? If not, why not? How could democracy in that country be improved or strengthened? What is the likelihood of that happening, and what kind of political developments would cause it to happen?

To research this paper you should start with the Freedom House country reports (scroll to bottom of page). Also search for articles about your country in the Journal of Democracy and through the Olin library website.

Week 5
Oct 4

INDIA

India made the transition from colonial rule to become the world’s largest democracy. How can a country so poor, and so divided by religious and ethnic strife, sustain itself as a democracy?

MID-TERM TEST

Oct 13

A test of your grasp of the theories and concepts introduced in the course so far. The in-class test will consist of five short identification questions and three short essay questions.

RUSSIA

Oct 18-20

The Soviet Union tried to build a state on Marxist principles. Their system was copied in two dozen other countries, usually with disastrous results. How did the Soviet system work? What is a ‘totalitarian’ regime? Why did Gorbachev launch perestroika - and why did it fail? Where is Russia headed today?

Second assignment, 5-7 pages, to be submitted on Friday Nov 4 by 4.00 pm:

A Marxist analysis of country X. How would a Marxist assess the political and economic situation in country X? Is it stable or unstable? What classes or political forces exist in that country that could overthrow the colonial dependency or capitalist exploitation that prevails there? Even if a revolution is not likely, what “progressive forces” could improve the lot of the oppressed?
ELITE THEORY

Week 9
Nov 3

There is a third theory that combines some elements of liberalism and Marxism, while rejecting most of the ideas in these theories. Elite theory provides a framework for explaining the persistence of authoritarianism. Why have there been so many military coups? Why are authoritarian leaders so adept at clinging to power? Why do some launch modernizing reforms and not others? When do revolutions occur? Can they succeed?

MEXICO AND LATIN AMERICA

Week 10
Nov 8-10

Mexico had a revolution that led to one-party rule, but not Soviet-style socialism. In 2000 the PRI allowed a free election which was won by the opposition candidate, Vicente Fox. Mexico was not alone. In the 1990s all the Latin American countries, except Cuba, made the transition to democracy. How are they doing?
